Decoding and translation of codes

6-Credit Section

This section contains the residual credit of the card, consisting of as many 1s as there are shots of the card (each shot £ 200) plus one. When the card is completely discharged there is only one click. This is what this section looks like when viewed from an oscilloscope:

Each shot is represented by a 1 and since in this photo we have 11 times one, we can say that in this tab there are still 10 shots.
